HOW TO USE

00

Quick reference on top, reasoning underneath. Nobody has to read it end to end.

Chapters 01 to 03 answer who Solucci is. Use them to write a proposal, introduce the house to a new client or decide whether a project fits. Chapters 04 to 06 answer how the brand looks: logo, colour and type, with the measurements and the files. Chapters 07 and 08 answer how the brand talks, from a WhatsApp message to a website statement. Chapter 09 shows the brand assembled in real pieces, and 10 hands over the files.

None of this is set in stone, and none of it is decoration either. When a rule gets in the way of real work, change the rule in this document instead of quietly making an exception. Brands do not lose consistency in one big decision, they lose it in thirty small ones.

THE SHORT VERSION, IF YOU HAVE THIRTY SECONDS

One sentence

Solucci turns a stuck problem into a solution that stands on its own, built with a designer's care and a developer's backbone.

One action colour

Coral `#F5533D`. Teal for tools and states, ink for everything structural.

One display face

Archivo, italic and wide, uppercase. It is what rhymes with the tilt of the logo.

One way of talking

Person to person. "We will sort it out", never "our company delivers solutions".

PLATFORM

01

The why before the how. Everything that follows rests on this.

The idea in one sentence

> Solucci turns a stuck problem into a solution that stands on its own, built with a designer's care and a developer's backbone.
> Solucci transforma o problema travado em solução que se sustenta sozinha, com o cuidado de quem desenha e a firmeza de quem constrói.

Every word is doing a job. Stands on its own says the work runs without crutches, with a light echo of a horse holding itself upright. A designer's care is design, a developer's backbone is dev, the two fronts behind almost everything the house makes.

Purpose, vision and mission

Purpose

Taking good ideas off the page and carrying them forward, with design, technology and soul. Plenty of people know what they want and have nobody to build it with craft and care. Solucci is that bridge.

Tirar boas ideias do papel e levá-las adiante.

Vision

To be known as a Brazilian creative house that solves across languages, from design to code, from games to music, proving an independent studio can carry a company's solidity and a collective's soul. Start in Brazil, speak to the world.

Mission

Solve brand, product and digital experience problems at a level of craft most people save for big accounts, and deliver it with clarity, closeness and on time.

Values

Five principles hold the house up. They are not wall decoration, they are the tiebreaker when a project gets tight.

Craft over speed

Work ships beautiful and well made because that is how we would want to receive it. Finish is part of the job, not an add-on.

Solve, do not just deliver

The job ends when the client's problem is gone, not when the file is exported.

Authorial, unafraid of a face

Personality is the edge, not the trim. A brand without a face ends up competing on price alone.

People before project

Clients are people and so is the team. Level conversation, open process, no corporate fog.

One house, many doors

Each division speaks its own language, and all of them carry the same DNA and the same word up front.

Essence

> Solutions with soul.
> Solução com alma.

Two halves in one line. Solutions is the firm ground, the problem actually gone. Soul is what most people leave out: the care, the personality, the extra thing that makes a client remember.

ARCHITECTURE

02

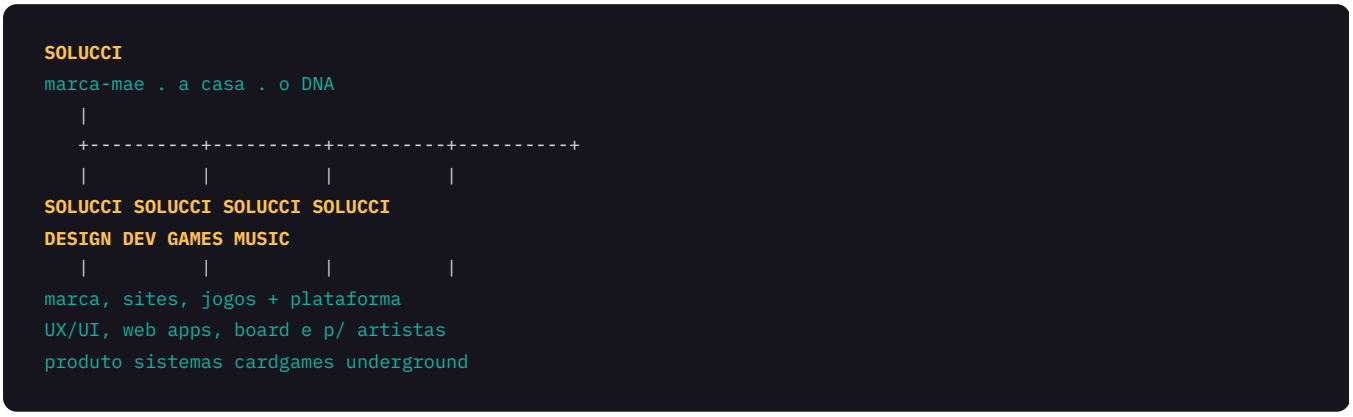

One strong parent brand and four divisions that borrow its strength and pay it back.

The model

Solucci runs as a branded house. Not an invisible holding company sheltering loose brands, the opposite: the Solucci name is the main asset and every division is endorsed by it.

It compounds, because every job in every area builds the same name. Six years of reputation do not split four ways, they stack into one. It signals structure without forcing you to invent four companies. It is cheap to scale, since opening a division means adding one word to the system. And it cross-sells: whoever comes in through design finds out there is dev too.

The divisions

SOLUCCI DESIGN

Brand, product and experience.

Visual identity and branding, UX and UI, product design and art direction. The house's visual language, and often the client's first door.

SOLUCCI DEV

Your idea, live.

Sites, web apps, WordPress, front-end, integrations, automations and systems. Where design becomes a product that works.

SOLUCCI GAMES

Fun, well built.

Digital and analogue, board and card games included. The most playful front in the house.

SOLUCCI MUSIC

A stage for the unheard.

Focused on rap and on a platform for underground artists: production, distribution and a stage. The front closest to culture and community.

Signing off, in practice

LIKE THIS

Corporate work and cross-area projects sign as Solucci alone.

Division work signs Solucci Design, division name after the logo and in a lighter weight.

Credit in the wild: por Solucci or by Solucci.

One parent domain with per-division paths, like solucci.com.br/design.

NEVER LIKE THIS

A division name bigger or heavier than Solucci.

A separate logo per division. A division is a word, not a new brand.

Translating the name. Solucci Design is Solucci Design anywhere.

A separate domain per division, which scatters the authority you built.

When a new division is born

Three conditions have to hold at once: there is real and recurring demand, it is a distinct language rather than one more service inside an existing division, and someone is there or will be there to lead it. Names follow Solucci plus one short noun, a single word, pronounceable in both languages, and never louder than Solucci itself.

Possible paths: Solucci Studio for audio, video and motion. Solucci Labs for R&D and experiments. Solucci Print for physical and editorial. Solucci Academy for courses and mentoring.

POSITIONING

03

For whom, against what, and why pick Solucci over the rest.

Statement

For people with an idea or a problem who do not want to split it across four different vendors, Solucci is the creative technology house that solves across languages, design, development, games and music, with the craft of an independent studio and the trust of six years doing this. Unlike a generic agency or a lone freelancer, Solucci brings personality and solidity in the same package.

Audience

Primary

Small and mid-sized companies and founders, in Portuguese and English, who need a site, a brand, a digital product or a system and want a single partner with a face and some care. They value design, but it has to work.

Secondary

Other creatives and studios subcontracting design or dev. Solucci is dependable as white-label and strong as its own brand.

Cultural

Underground artists and the games scene, arriving through Music and Games. Not the biggest revenue, but what builds community and affection for the brand.

Value proposition

One partner, many languages

No need to stitch together a Frankenstein of vendors.

Studio craft, company delivery

Beautiful and well made, on time, with a clear process.

Personality that sticks

The brand has a face of its own, and that is what makes clients remember and refer.

Real people on the other side

No corporate fog and no vanishing halfway through.

LOGO

04

One tilted wordmark and one symbol that works alone. Nothing else.

Primary lockup

The official logo is the full wordmark: symbol plus SOLUCCI in a heavy, tilted grotesque. It signs the website, proposals, decks and any piece where someone meets the brand for the first time.

The file ships in currentColor, so a single SVG covers black, white, coral and whatever colour it inherits from its parent. On dark backgrounds the logo is bone #F3F1EC rather than pure white, which buzzes against the ink.

Symbol alone

The symbol is a star-shaped wing cut by a bolt. It goes out on its own when the space is square or too small for the wordmark: favicon, avatar, app icon, badge, footer stamp. Anywhere else, use the wordmark.

Clear space

Call X the height of the logo, which is also the height of the symbol. It needs 1X of clear space on every side, free of text, imagery, borders or other marks. In a tight layout, shrink the logo before eating into the clear space.

Minimum size

Wordmark on screen

100 px wide. Below that the two C shapes lose their counters and the symbol turns to mush.

Wordmark in print

26 mm wide. For screen printing or embroidery, go up to 34 mm.

Symbol on screen

24 px. The 16 px favicon is the one authorised exception, and it uses the dedicated favicon file rather than the raw symbol.

Symbol in print

8 mm.

Never do this

DO NOT STRETCH
Always scale proportionally.

DO NOT ROTATE
The tilt is already drawn in.

NO SHADOW
No outline, bevel or gradient.

OFF PALETTE
Ink, bone, coral or black. That is it.

NO CONTRAST
If it disappears, switch versions.

DO NOT CROP
The logo goes in whole or not at all.

NOTE ON THE PREVIOUS LOGO

The pixel wordmark, the one with a teal square dotting the i, is retired. It is not an alternate version and not an authorised legacy use. Wherever it still shows up, replace it.

COLOUR

05

One base, two working colours, three accents.

Palette

Ink
#16141D
Base. Text, dark backgrounds, logo.

Soft ink
#4A5769
Support text and secondary copy.

Faint ink
#8C9EA6
Captions, metadata, inactive states.

Coral
#F5533D
Action colour. Buttons and highlighted links.

Deep coral
#D63A26
Hover, pressed state and inline links.

Teal
#0FB5A6
Tooling colour. Selection, focus, state.

Deep teal
#0A8C81
Teal on light backgrounds, when contrast is needed.

Bronze
#E8A33D
Warm accent. Card highlights.

Gold
#FFC24D
Spot highlight, badges, achievements.

Magenta
#B23A80
Cool accent. Counterweight to coral.

Cream
#FAF8F3
Primary light background.

Ice
#E7EBEC
Secondary light background and gradient base.

Bone
#F3F1EC
Text and logo on dark backgrounds.

Roles, not preferences

Every colour has a job. When two colours fight over the same job on a screen, one of them is wrong.

Ink is structure
Text, dark backgrounds, the logo. The colour that appears the most and asks for the least attention.

Coral is action
Primary button, highlighted link, the only accent that says "click here". One primary action per screen.

Teal is tooling
Selection, focus, state indicators, interface handles. Never competes with coral.

Bronze, gold and magenta are accents

They categorise, mark a division, warm up a card. They never become button colours.

Contrast we actually measured

The numbers below are WCAG contrast ratios computed on the official hex values. AA asks for 4.5 on body text and 3 on large text, from 24 px up, or 18.7 px bold.

PAIR	RATIO	USE
Aa Ink on cream	17,18	ANYWHERE
Aa Bone on ink	16,15	ANYWHERE
Aa Gold on ink	11,35	ANYWHERE
Aa Teal on ink	7,10	ANYWHERE
Aa Soft ink on cream	6,92	ANYWHERE
Aa Ink on coral	5,37	ANYWHERE
Aa Magenta on cream	5,19	ANYWHERE
Aa Deep coral on cream	4,40	NEAR AA
Aa White on coral	3,39	LARGE TEXT ONLY
Aa Coral on cream	3,20	LARGE TEXT ONLY
Aa Faint ink on cream	2,62	NOT FOR TEXT
Aa Teal on cream	2,42	NOT FOR TEXT
Aa Bronze on cream	2,03	NOT FOR TEXT

WHAT THIS FORCES

A coral link inside body text uses deep coral #D63A26 with an underline.

Teal, bronze and faint ink are graphic: rules, dots, icons, borders. Not text.

COMMON MISTAKES

Light grey captions on cream, gone the moment a phone hits daylight.

Coral and teal at the same weight on one screen, fighting for attention.

A coral to teal gradient. Both are role colours, not decoration.

TYPE

06

Three families, three jobs. All free, under the OFL.

Archivo VARIABLE . DISPLAY — GOOGLE FONTS

SOLUÇÃO COM ALMA

Weights 700 and 800, width between 104 and 112. The wide italic is the brand's gesture: it is what rhymes with the tilt of the wordmark. Italic for the main headline, roman for section headings, so it does not wear out. Never for body copy.

IBM Plex Sans BODY AND INTERFACE — GOOGLE FONTS

We get to the actual problem and hand back a solution that works, that lands, and that keeps going.

Weights 400, 500, 600 and 700. Line height 1.6 for body and 1.5 for lead paragraphs. Reading column between 60 and 75 characters.

IBM Plex Mono LABELS, METADATA AND CODE — GOOGLE FONTS

DESIGN . DEV . GAMES . MUSIC

Weights 400, 600 and 700. Labels always uppercase with 0.14em to 0.2em tracking. It is what gives the brand its technical air without needing icons.

Scale

Sizes are fluid via `clamp`: the first value is mobile, the second is desktop.

H1 . 37 A 92	TÍTULO
H2 . 30 A 54	SEÇÃO
H3 . 19	Subtítulo do bloco
LEAD . 17 TO 21	Opening paragraph, slightly larger
BODY . 15 TO 17	Body copy, the most common size
LABEL . 10	SECTION LABEL

07

Personality in layers, not four adjectives stacked at the same height.

The layers

At the same level, the traits turn to soup. Stacked in order, they add up to a coherent person.

Base . bold creative soul

What lands first. The nerve to have a face of its own is what makes the brand memorable.

Engine . technical excellence

None of it holds without real competence underneath. Not just good looking, well built.

Spine . professional trust

Six years, deadlines, process, promises kept. What lets a big client sleep at night.

Voice . close and human

Person to person, plain and direct.

Tone

Direct, short sentences, one clear idea at a time, respecting the reader's time. Warm instead of corporate. Confident without arrogance, proving command through the work rather than through adjectives, more "look what we made" than "we are the best". Plus a playful edge that never runs over clarity or credibility when the context is serious.

Running in two languages

The brand is born speaking Portuguese and English. Names and divisions are never translated. The tagline has an official pair in both languages, decided in advance and never improvised on the spot. The tone is the same on both sides, and in English it pays to dodge stiff formality to keep the warmth. Context picks the language, and the two never mix in one piece unless that is the point.

VERBAL SYSTEM

08

Tagline, sign-offs and the pitch you can say in a lift without stumbling.

Primary tagline

> Where solutions spring.
> A nascente da solução.

It reaches straight for Hippocrene, the spring Pegasus opened with a hoof and where the Muses drew inspiration. It says Solucci is not only the one who delivers the solution, it is where the solution comes from. It works for the parent brand and for any division, and the double meaning survives in English: spring as a source and as the act of springing up.

ALTERNATIVES WORTH TESTING

Solutions that go further

More pragmatic, results first. Good when the spring metaphor is too abstract for the room.

Solutions that go further

One house, many languages

Sells the division structure up front. Good for explaining the model in one blink.

One house, many languages

Built to solve, made to last

Finish and solidity, for the more pragmatic client.

Built to solve, made to last

Solucci Design

Solucci Dev

Solucci Games

Solucci Music

Ten second pitch

Solucci is a creative technology house. We solve across several fronts, design, development, games and music, with a face of our own and six years on the road. One partner, many languages.

APPLICATIONS

The brand assembled. These are the pieces that show up every week.

Favicon, avatar and app icon

The official icon is the symbol in white on a coral rounded square. Never the full wordmark inside a square: at 32 px it turns to blur.

Email signature

Built with table HTML, which is what survives Outlook and Gmail. The ready file is in the repository: swap name, role and phone, then paste it into your mail client.

Rules for every piece

ALWAYS

- One primary action per screen, in coral.
- Labels in mono, uppercase, tracked out. The house's technical signature.
- Headlines in Archivo, copy in Plex Sans. Never the other way around.
- Spacing in multiples of 4 px.

NEVER

- Emoji in brand pieces.
- Generic stock icons crowning every block.
- Heavy shadows and very round corners, which age fast.
- Animation that communicates neither state nor direction.

BEFORE YOU USE IT

Always start from the SVG. PNG only when a tool refuses vectors. Never redraw the logo, never rebuild it from a screenshot, and never fake the wordmark by typing SOLUCCI in Archivo: the outlines carry their own corrections that no font reproduces.
